“Patriot Trees” Loblolly Pine Restoration US Navy Base, GA/SC

This project assists the Navy in planting loblolly and longleaf pine seedlings at Port Townsend Bombing Range.

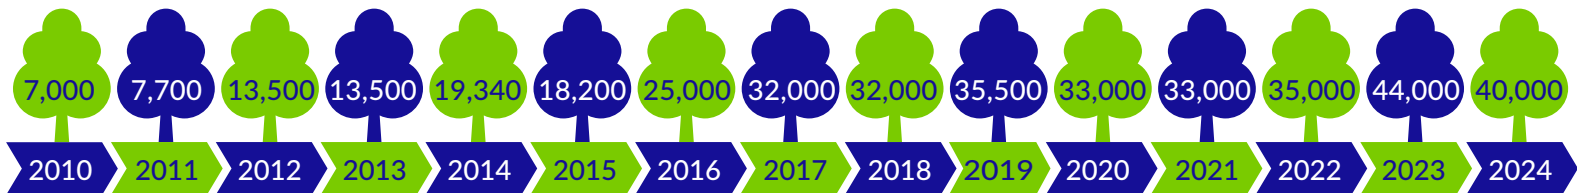

This initiative supports Executive Order 14072, which aims to conserve and restore American forests, as well as the Department of Navy’s environmental policy.

Longleaf pine is a significant keystone species in the Southeast.

Only 3% of the original longleaf range remains today, making this effort critical to the conservation of longleaf and the species that rely on it.

Over the past decade, Chubb has contributed $1 toward tree-planting initiatives for every environmental insurance policy issued globally.
