Assurance Extra

Product brochure

A summary of Assurance Extra

You've worked hard to get where you are today and along the way you are likely to have come to appreciate a number of areas in your life that are important to you, such as your family, your income, your home, your health and your lifestyle.

But what if the unexpected should happen – how can you protect the things you value? This is why insurance is so important.

Protecting what's important to you

There are a number of insurance solutions that protect your life and lifestyle against illness, injury and death. These insurances are often referred to as life and living insurances. These days it's important to consider a combination of life and living insurances to ensure you are protected against any of life's many challenges that may come your way.

We have a full range of insurance solutions to help you protect what's important, so you can get on with living life to the full.

What is Assurance Extra?

Assurance Extra is a master policy for your personal life and living insurance needs. It offers nine different covers, which you can choose from to suit your needs and budget.

The covers include:

Life Cover & Life Income Cover

Trauma Cover & Moderate Trauma Cover

Complete Disablement Cover

Income Cover

Mortgage Repayment Cover

Redundancy Cover

Specific Injury Cover

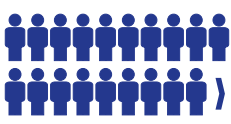

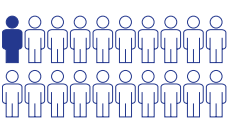

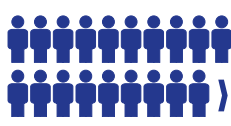

Premium Cover

Can you afford not to have life and living insurance?

It's in our nature to be optimistic and we all like to think 'it'll never happen to me'. But the reality is at some point many of us will be faced with an illness, injury or even an unexpected death.

That's why it's important to consider the potential impacts of an accident, illness or death on you and your family's life and lifestyle.

Take the time to ask yourself the following questions:

Ask yourself:	The facts:
If I was to die tomorrow, would my family have enough money to cope now and in the future?	Every 90 minutes, a New Zealander dies from coronary heart disease.¹ 	Every year, more than 600 women die from breast cancer in New Zealand – almost two every day.²
If I was diagnosed with a serious illness or condition, would I have enough money to support my family while I receive treatment and recover?	One in 20 adults have been diagnosed with coronary heart disease.³ 	It's estimated that 1 in 3 New Zealanders who get cancer are cured.⁴
If I became completely disabled, would I have enough money to cover my current living expenses and any additional costs I may have to pay for care or house alterations? Would my family be able to support themselves without my income?	There are an estimated 60,000 stroke survivors in New Zealand, many are disabled and need significant daily support.⁵ 	During the June 2018 quarter, there were 92,642 working-age people (aged 18–64 years) in receipt of Supported Living Payment*.⁶
If I had an accident or became very ill and was no longer able to earn an income, could my family and I manage financially?	The average household expenditure in New Zealand is around $1,349 per week.⁷ 	In 2017, 231,100 claims were made to ACC for work-related injury.⁸
If I became ill or had an accident, which meant I could no longer work, could I afford to pay my rent or mortgage without any income?	In 2019, the average weekly household mortgage repayment expenditure was $460 per week.⁹ 	1.1 million people (or 24%) in the general New Zealand population have a disability.¹⁰

If you answered 'no' to any of the questions above, then now is a good time to talk to your financial adviser.

Expert advice

We recommend you talk to a financial adviser to help you protect what you've worked so hard to achieve. With the help of a financial adviser, you can tailor a plan that will suit your individual needs and budget.

Your adviser can also help with reviewing your insurance. Life changes so rapidly that people are often unaware of how it can affect their insurance. That's why it's so important to review your insurance regularly, to make sure it accurately reflects your current needs.

Talk to your financial adviser about tailoring a plan to suit your individual needs and budget.
